For Appomattox Extension Work

Walton named to PKP at Tech

By Frances H. Paulette

Shirley Walton, Appomattox County Home Economist, was initiated into the National Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi at Virginia Tech on May 25.

The former Shirley Williams of Pittsylvania County, she is a graduate of Dan River High School and Radford University and is presently doing graduate work at VPI/SU.

Walton taught Home Economics at Chatham High School before moving to Appomattox County in 1973 when her husband, Lloyd Walton, a native of this county, accepted the position of Superintendent of the Appomattox County School Division.

The primary objective of Phi Kappa Phi is the recognition and encouragement of superior scholarship in all fields of study. The Society elects to membership juniors, seniors, and graduate students who are the highest ranking individuals scholastically in their class. To be considered for membership, juniors must be in the upper five percent of their class, seniors must be in the upper ten percent of their class and graduate students must be in the upper ten percent of those who are candidates for graduate degrees.

Born and reared on a bright tobacco farm, the older of two children, Shirley was, in her own words, "My Daddy's boy."

"I always loved helping on the farm and especially operating the farm machinery," commented Shirley.

Shirley gives credit to her youth on the farm for the formation of good work habits and a willingness to serve.

"I feel that my work here in Appomattox County as an extension agent is an opportunity to serve people daily," commented Walton.

"I serve through Extension Homemaker programs and activities; through 4-H in-school clubs, workshops and activities; through community organizations; through individual contacts; through classes and workshops and through being available to the citizens of Appomattox County by telephone, home visits and office visits," she continued.

Always 'Johnny-On-The-Spot' when it was 'getting up hay' time, Shirley vividly remembers one afternoon's work.

"We were all busy getting in the unusually large crop of hay, my father, the hired boys, and of course I was there driving the tractor while the boys loaded the hay. Suddenly we noticed a dark, threatening cloud in the direction that usually meant 'rain and lots of it'. I was beginning to get a bit apprehensive; the cloud was getting darker by the minute and the boys, it seemed, were getting slower by the minute. Finally, my patience was gone, jumping from the tractor, I said, 'One of you do the driving and let me show you fellows just how to hump hay,' and I began to load hay. We made it before the rains came," she said with a laugh.

Walton, always a hard worker, feels she has accomplished her goals in the program of extension work because of her family's support.

"In Extension work we work long hours, and have much night work, but it is all pleasure because we help individuals and clubs meet their personal and group goals. My husband has always been there to help and support me in every activity and my two daughters, Chryl and Laura have been my assistants since the beginning of my work in Extension Service," Walton said.

"Being an Extension Agent in Appomattox County has special meaning for me," said Walton, "because of returning to this county where my husband is a native. It is also very rewarding to me because I have an opportunity to serve daily in helping people help themselves. I consider the home and church to be the foundation of a stable society and Extension work provides me the opportunity to give leadership to the building of strong homes and the molding of individuals of exemplary character."

"The work here in Appomattox County is staff effort. Our Extension staff is respected throughout the District and State because of the rich heritage and leadership example of Mr. Jim Smith, our unit chairman; Mrs. Ella Anderson, the first Extension home economist in the county and the late Mr. R. B. Hudgins and others who have given of themselves to help build Extension in the county. One of my favorite daily mottos is, 'People must feel good about themselves before they can feel good about others.' I try to live by this statement because daily I strive to help people feel good about themselves and in turn feel good about other people," she concluded.

Father Darkleaf

By Calvin Robinson

With Memorial Day weekend behind us, next holiday is July 4 and I note that comes on a Sunday this year. Which means a long weekend. I attended a Legion sponsored Memorial program at our courthouse square Sunday afternoon. The Rev. F. S. Wagoner was speaker and the local high school band performed. Keith Leonard played "Taps." On the highways appeals for safely helped keep accidents at a minimum.

A verse of No. 88 (Bring Them In) for Mrs. Betty Ruth Scruggs, of Vera, who came by to bring us eighteen fourleaf and two fiveleaf clovers. No way we can lose now, if such items truly bring good luck. Thanks. This seems to be a big year for clovers but nearly all are the regular three leafers.

* * *

And thanks to Mr. and Mrs. John Sam Martin for a copy of the Webster Springs, W. Va. ECHO, an outstanding newspaper. All about the 18th annual Webster County Woodchopping Festival, a big civic event running May 20-31 and featuring everything from a big parade, plenty of food to square dancing, mud wrestling, woodchopping contests for all age groups, contests and a grand woodchoppers' Ball.

The Rev. and Mrs. Vergil Hudson, formerly of Evergreen, have been visiting in Appomattox and are always welcome. Guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Caldwell. Thanks for paying Martha Street a visit.

A letter from William E. Nichols, Point of Rocks, Maryland, has some good words to say about this column and offers to send a copy of his local newspaper. Please do.

My native Norfolk is observing its 300th birthday this year, with a wide variety of events. What's for the annual Railroad Festival in Appomattox?

* * *

The end of the school session is nearing and the green light you see is for all the activities clustered under the memorable June Days. Hardly a home not touched in some way by the milestones of the learning process. Wish you the best.

Richard Ferguson, of Appomattox won the 10,000 meter race in the fifth annual Altavista YMCA Uncle Billy's Day races Saturday. It was his fourth win; his time 32 minutes. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Murrell Ferguson.

Strawberry time. Saw a whole family picking strawberries Saturday. I found several wild ones in my yard. As a salute I ate a pint of store bought strawberry ice cream.

My garden is doing all right and that means yours must be super, for on a scale of one to ten, my garden would get a two. Ah yes, and one magnolia bloom, away up in the tree.
